Abstract

The analysis of subsistant communication system CDMA-450 of the enterprise have been carried (out) in the given graduation this diploma project. The new transmission system  the equipment was selected. The calculation of antennais range, capacity, reliability was made.

The functional abilities of the selected equipment was described. Singly, the problems of labour protection and economical part of project CDMA-450 was discussed.