

Summary

In this thesis work designed automated system PTZ control. The purpose of this system is the automated remote management of industrial thermal imager. The tasks: creating a controller part, the implementation of the two options wireless device management client program writing device management program with a convenient interface for smartphones and PCs.