

Summary

This degree project is dedicated to control system. This work shows the basic requirements and the technical decision of logical module information-measuring system and offers structural scheme of the control. A control program for logical module LOGO was developed in LOGO!Soft Comfort software. The basis of introduction of the developed system is confirmed by technical and economic calculations.