

Abstract

The capstone project regarded analysis of quality of service multi-service networks. The effectiveness of multi-service networks in the field of telecommunications. The analysis of the quality of service multi-service network with the help of simulation and analytical models, calculated indicators of quality. In the economic part of a study program that determines the QoS parameters and the efficiency of the program. In terms of life safety fire safety measures are considered.