

Abstract

The diploma project is dedicated to the analysis of QoS data network in Kostanay. The questions of modeling and comparative analysis with the self-similar properties for different types of codecs, overload detection methods and their impact on the quality of service parameters. The effectiveness of the system confirmed the technical and economic calculation