

Abstract

The diploma project is aimed at the study of corporate technology and special attention is paid to the design based on VPN technology in the insurance company to connect all computers to a single database.

The project consists of five chapters that address the main problem of the choice by technical calculation and adjustment of the equipment for the organization of a virtual private network. The project discloses a method of constructing VPN network.