

Abstract

In this thesis project, the analysis and the development of a conceptual model of cloud solutions for aircraft. Justified and shows the possibility of using cloud solutions for aircraft, using modern software and hardware.

In the safety of life part, the analysis of working conditions, made the calculation of lighting and air conditioning workroom.

In the economic part of the established business plan, confirming its economic viability.