

Annotation

In this diploma work an electronic textbook is described on-course "Military preparation". In respect of meaningfulness of this project and theme of diploma work, a diploma project consists of two basic divisions:

- 1) in the first and the second head creation of electronic textbook is examined on the whole, about his meaningfulness and about the course of military preparation;
- 2) in the third head talked about the environment of work of electronic textbook and technology of application.

Electronic train aid - sent to automation of educating and control of knowledge. An electronic textbook is identified on the taught discipline or by her separate divisions, allowing to define the trajectory of educating, and also electronic edition providing different educational works.

Electronic train aid students can use for realization of laboratory works and at independent educating or during realization of effective control.