Annotation

The theme of master's work is «Organization of Internet access based on a CISCO router». Consists of: introduction, a special part, conclusion, list of literature and applications. In special part are described the meaning of internet provider and different ways of connecting to the web. Functions and tasks are given great attention. Parameters of equipment allowing internet connection and adjustment of these equipment characterized. This work also designates data transmission network technologies. There are also economic part and section on life safety in master's work. Master's work is written on 84 sheets. Bibliography consist of 23 denominations.