

Abstract

In the thesis the project of the geoinformation system on industrial employment of the Zhambyl region is presented. Geoinformation system on industrial employment of Zhambyl region is created to provide information and reference service about industrial activity in the region. The software application is developed in the Borland Delphi 7 system. A feasibility study of the software development is given, and a comfortable and safe workspace is planned.