This diploma project is devoted to the development and creation of a system for assessing the effectiveness of enterprises.

The general characteristics of the existing methods of the privatization process and a meaningful description of denationalization and privatization are given. In the diploma project, models for choosing the forms of ownership and assessing the efficiency of the functioning of enterprises have been developed.

In addition, the draft considered issues of labor protection when working with computers and an example of an economic justification for the development of a software project.
