

Annotation

In this degree project, the plan and justification for the implementation and construction of an information system for monitoring the monitoring of the network of the corporate network of satellite stations is considered. The diploma also presents the main parameters for monitoring, the scheme for building a monitoring network and the composition of equipment. The project also describes life safety measures. A feasibility study for implementing monitoring at the enterprise has been developed, as well as processes and methods of monitoring