

Annotation

In this project, a website is being developed for a marketing agency that specializes in providing various marketing services to various firms. The Internet is used as a method of rapid dissemination of data in the background of the ongoing informatization of the market.

This website will enable users to promptly and on time choose services in order to promote their own business, and in addition it is comfortable to implement the order, see the history of their orders and the timing of their implementation. The concept of management of informative content and the base of clients of this advertising agency is taken into account, which makes it possible in the future to implement changes in the structure and content of the website depending on current tasks, applying a special admission of the administrator on the website.