

Annotation

The aim of the thesis is the development site for LTD "Print Media". The sites and activities of companies providing online printing services are analyzed in the diploma project. New updated site LTD "Print Media" developed with using new WEB-technologies. The structure of database of printing products and services was created.

The site built on the programming language PHP, style technologies CSS and the system of database management MySQL.