

Annotation

In this Diploma project examined the development of software for incremental data archiving. The program was implemented in the Delphi programming language in the Embarcadero 2010XE development environment. An analysis was made of modeling and coding of incremental backup.

To addition, an analysis is made of working conditions for the development of the application under consideration.

Also, compiled feasibility study of the project confirming its economic viability.