

Annotation.

In this final work, a feasibility study for the construction of the Aktyubinsk CHP plant is being considered.

In the thermal part, in accordance with the assignment, the heat load was calculated and the selection of the main and auxiliary equipment was carried out. The name has a thermal design.

In light-shielded lighting, a turbo-assembly workshop was designed and a timed fire safety was discussed.

In the economic part of the investment were intended, that is, when and how quickly the project is implemented, it can justify itself.