

Annotation

This project considers the construction of a CHP-2 station in the city of Astana, as well as the determination of its technical and economic significance. The station of CHP-2 in the city of Astana will provide the city, small areas and villages with heat and electricity.

In the implementation of the CHP-2 project, territorial socio-economic improvement is envisaged, it is planned to provide cities and regions with affordable heat energy and electricity. And it is also planned that the economic benefit will not harm the environment.