

Annotation

This diploma work examines the efficiency of the device by encryption and its durability, comparing with software encryption, the device works much faster to prove that the device was more efficient, there were examples of calculations and block diagrams. To be in step with the times this method was invented and the device that will be relevant is planned.

This diploma project considers the economic part of the same labor protection measures. In the economic part, the expenses for the apparatus and the income after its realization were calculated. To create working conditions and security measures, calculations were made.

