

Annotation

This project is designed to create a database for the automation of General processes, services and services of patients in the dental clinic. In this graduation project was developed and aimed at creating an information system in C# with Bootstrap framework.

When developing the project, the Redips Drag and Drop JavaScript library and applications for implementing the program were used: Oracle software, PHP, JavaScript. Also presented are the rules of using the database of dental clinic.

The problem of life safety was checked, during the development the coefficient of calculation of ventilation was calculated. Also in the economic department was determined the costs of the project, the cost of labor and work efficiency.