

Annotation

In this project, according to the assignment, the question of the development of an automatic electronic document management system at the enterprise is considered. Technological equipment for the main program and additional software was considered.

In the technical economic part, the economic efficiency of the project was calculated. The issues of human life safety were also considered and the necessary calculations were made.