

Annotation

The main purpose of the degree work is to introduce a paperless system of weapons of mass destruction. Electronic document management should also be maintained. Developing mobile applications. In order to achieve this goal, the following tasks were solved: the structure of the application, the security of the electronic document, the electronic digital signature, the automation of the firm's work, the procedure for the preparation of the electronic document. Modern computer technology has been used to perform the work, in particular the database was compiled in the framework of the MongoDB environment and the user interface was implemented through the visual components of the Ionicframework.