

Annotation

In the research paper developed informative annex "credit department of the banking system".

The aim of the thesis is to develop an information application "The banking system lending department". This data application performs the following tasks: providing information on borrowers, the registration of a new client, full name, address of the client Sorting in increasing numbers treaty organization look-id-numbers of clients, conclude comprehensive statistics borrowers. In software development, the thesis used object-oriented programming environment C# and database MS SQL Server.