Annotation

It is the development of a web application to request documents or services within the University diploma project. In this graduation project was developed a project aimed at creating a system in PHP.

When developing the project, applications were used to create a testing system: HTML, PHP, JavaScript, Mysql. The web-based program facilitates the requests of students, students and staff at the University.

The problem of life safety during the development of the information system was verified and the lighting was calculation coefficient. Also in the economic part was determined the cost of work, labor assessment and work efficiency.