

Annotation

The thesis provides a comprehensive system of automation of the seller of computer equipment online store. The paper presents the structure of the database of buyers and types of computer equipment.

The effectiveness of this program automates the workplace of the seller, making it easier and save time. This application is created in Visual Studio and a separate file is created using the MySQL database.

This diploma project provides for the introduction, study of the subject area, development tools, design, applied, economic calculations and labor protection.