

ABSTRACT

To the diploma project on the topic: "Protection of information while using e-mail". The analytical part describes the object of protection, shows the relevance of the topic in relation to this object, considers possible threats to e-mail services. In the theoretical part of this project, the principles of e-mail and a description of mail protocols, methods of protection against threats to e-mail. The criteria for evaluating the effectiveness of software to protect e-mail from various threats.