

ANNOTATION

This thesis is related to the design of hardware and software complex to ensure the safety of LLP "Medsnab". In this paper, the classification of objects of protection and objects of protection, violators and potential threats, the basis for the formation of a complex of technical means of security were described in detail. As part of the work, a complex of security systems was designed based on the concept of information security of LLP "Medsnab".