

ANNOTATION

The present diploma project is devoted to the effective corporation server defense, its testing, analysis and elimination of its vulnerabilities.

Economical part includes an analysis of opportunities of program products commercializing, which were used for a creation of a software in diploma project, expenses for development of the diploma project and accounts of economical effectiveness for construction of the model were provided.

In the section of life safety optimal labor conditions are defined, an account of inside lightning of a place where the project has been developed was provided.