

Annotation

This thesis project is dedicated to the design of a secure corporate network for «AGMACSOURCE» LLP. The theoretical part describes the method for constructing networks. In the practical part, the network model is implemented using protective equipment.

In the economic part included the calculation of the possible costs in the development of the graduation project.

In the section of life safety were calculated ventilation system in the room.