

Annotation

The diploma project is devoted to the development of an actual object management system with the choice of a suitable platform and management via cellular communication, having free access to the Internet. Among other similar platforms, an analysis was made and a carefully selected option based on the Raspberry PI. This project is realized in the form of a prototype which technical solution is confirmed with the feasibility study.