

Annotation

This given diploma project presents the characteristics of the physicochemical and technological bases of the technology of SNCR-installations. The results of experimental studies have shown the effectiveness of the reduction of nitrogen oxides. It was given the technical and economic study of proposals for a deep reduction of nitrogen oxides, which are harmful emissions from boiler plants.