

ABSTRACT

For designing a two-speed motor with a number of poles the choice of the main dimensions and the calculation of the dimensions of the stator tooth zone and the air gap were carried out.

Calculations of the magnetic circuit and starting parameters were also performed characteristics and performance parameters determined engine losses for two cases $2P=2$ and $2P=4$. Calculations of the rotor shaft from mechanical forces and thermal calculation of the engine are made.