

Summary

The aim of the graduation project is to develop vehicle integrity control with the function of transmitting status data over the LoRaWAN wireless network. The technology of wireless transmission of information was selected, component parts were selected and a project was implemented with a working program code. The basic parameters of safe work in the room are calculated and a business plan for the projected object is drawn up.