

Annotation

This thesis is intended for solving corrective tasks of the automatic control system with the ECG-8I pressure mechanism. To solve the tasks of the automatic control system, the necessary devices are selected. The database includes graphs using Proteus Design Suite and Matlab. The department of safety and labor protection has calculated the safe location of the workplace. In the economic section, the cost program for project development and implementation calculates the cost of development and depreciation of equipment.