

Annotation

This graduation project addressed issues of creating a housing climate management system. The purpose of the microclimate and the principles of its operation are presented in the work. In the course of the project, a schematic and block diagram of the device, a program of the device, a block diagram of the program and a diagram of the device were developed. The project includes sections on life safety, labor .