

Annotation

In this thesis, questions are considered about technologies for recognizing objects using the technical vision used in loading operations. A system for recognizing objects by pixel colors was created and a 3D model of the manipulator was developed.

The issues of life safety were also considered, economic indicators of project efficiency were calculated.