

Annotation

In this case, depending on how much it is possible to use, for example, in order to access the Internet, it must be borne in mind that it will have access to the Internet, and it will be able to access the Internet. The analysis of the types of greenhouse control devices was also carried out, the necessary technical and software details were completed, and the sides of further development of the system are considered. Calculation of costs for installation of equipment performed in the last economic part, and wages of employees. In the section life Safety, protection from the field of electromagnetic waves in the working room of engineers, the zoning system, and electrical safety were calculated.