

Annotation

This diploma project presents the introduction of a face recognition system using libraries in an open resource. Programs are executed in the Python programming language. The connection between the Raspberry Pi microcomputer using the Proteus electronic system program and the implementation of the basic access control system algorithms through this program are investigated.