

Abstract

This thesis deals with the control system of a mobile hybrid drone. During operation, the necessary electronic components were described. Acoustic noise calculations were performed in the life safety department. In the economic part of the project, the total investment and operating costs of the project are calculated.

#