

Annotation

This thesis is devoted to the organization of laboratory work to study the possibilities Zabbix.

In the theoretical part it was wrote - especially technology, operational protocols, architecture

During the development of the thesis, the following tasks were solved: virtualization of the environment, Linux installation, server installation, device emulation

The Health and Safety Section, has been considered the theme of the organization of work and ventilation in the workplace.