

Annotation

In this diploma project, issues related to the deep learning technology in the telecommunications network were considered and studied, and forecasting was carried out using ARIMA. Work has been done to develop code in the Python programming language.

Problems with the microclimate from the section of life safety are considered and a business plan is developed.