

Annotation

The graduation project analyzes methods for improving the quality of services in modern contact centers.

First of all, an analysis of modern contact centers was carried out, and the activities of the contact center to create a model were examined. In the billing department, the quality of services in contact centers was calculated using several methods.

The issues of life safety and a feasibility study are considered.