

Abstract

This diploma project offers the study and development of a model for servicing M2M traffic. A detailed analysis of the service model was also carried out, a scheme for organizing communications was developed, and the choice of technology, scope and place in the industry were considered.

In the course of the work, the efficiency of the economic Department was evaluated.

Safety of life includes the calculation of the operator's workplace, as well as airing.