

ABSTRACT

The diploma project is dedicated to the development of an information system for citizens and tourists of Almaty. The developed program will help the user to build their own route and offer a list of places that tourists must visit. The topic of tourism is relevant, but at the moment domestic tourism is at the stage of development. The diploma project was made in the format of an Android application. The mobile app is designed to provide information about tourist places and increase the effectiveness of attracting new tourists. Technologies such as Firebase, Android studio, and Javascript were used to implement the diploma project.

In addition, the final work analyzes domestic tourism in Kazakhstan, as well as considers the issue of life safety and economic efficiency from the introduction of the system into production.
