

ANNOTATION

This project was developed in the Android environment to improve the information management system of the clinic.

This app allows you to work on your mobile phone or tablet. With this program, you can make an appointment at any doctor's clinic, get information about the doctor and see the results of tests.

The software of this project is developed in the AndroidStudio environment using FireBase, the code is written in the Java object-oriented programming language. The main part fully describes the mobile application "polyclinic information system".