

Anatation

This thesis project examines and proves that the effectiveness and stability of the encryption device work faster than software encryption devices. The project provides block diagrams with calculations. This is a new, fast-acting equipment that meets modern requirements. The Department of life safety conducted an analysis of the state of work in the work area. The level of working conditions is considered acceptable for workers. Calculation and grounding of evacuation routes in the building was performed.