

Abstract

The implementation of the "Smart office" concept will allow information security employees to spend less time performing routine tasks, since this concept is aimed at automating, monitoring and responding to information security incidents. This project describes the architecture of the concept that protects network and corporate business traffic, describes the work and actions of the incident response team, and developed a software and technical structure.