

Annotation

In the thesis, a feasibility study was conducted for the construction of a 250 MW CCP in the Turkestan region.

The diploma project considers the calculation of the thermal scheme, the choice of main and auxiliary equipment, environmental and labor protection issues, and the economic justification of the project. Technical and economic indicators of CCP and payback period are presented.