

Annotation

This work examines the use of artificial neural networks in the military sphere, namely Cyber Security, Radar. Methods in Machine Learning for military tasks will be considered, and a program will be developed for classifying radar targets using machine learning and deep learning.