Annotation

The dissertation work is devoted to the study and development of a computer vision system and a robotic manipulator. This paper provides an overview of existing systems.computer vision systems, their types, methods, algorithms of operation, areas of application and future prospects for implementation are considered.The scheme and design of the future project have been developed. According to our project, mathematical and engineering calculations were made.